The screenshot shows the 'Journal of Epidemiology' website. The header includes the logo and the text 'Journal of Epidemiology Japan Epidemiological Association'. The main content area is titled 'このジャーナルについて' (About this journal) and contains a list of links: '目的と掲載分野', 'オープンアクセスポリシー', '会員資格', '掲載料', '冊子購読 (日本国内)', '出版スケジュール', and '編集委員'. Below this list, there are sections for '目的と掲載分野', 'オープンアクセスポリシー', '著作権者のクレジット表示', and '会員資格'. The '目的と掲載分野' section states that the journal is an open access academic journal published by the Japanese Epidemiological Association, aiming to promote communication in the field of epidemiology. The 'オープンアクセスポリシー' section explains that the journal has adopted the CC BY 4.0 license, allowing authors to retain copyright while permitting reuse and distribution with attribution. The '著作権者のクレジット表示' section provides an example of a citation: 'Fujino, Yoshihisa et al. (2013) Taxation Categories for Long-term Care Insurance Premiums and Mortality Among Elderly Japanese: A Cohort Study. Journal of Epidemiology 23(1):41-46 doi:10.2188/jea.JE20120011, licensed under Creative Commons Attribution 3.0 Unported License.' The '会員資格' section notes that authors from Japan must be members of the Japanese Epidemiological Association. On the right side of the page, there is a sidebar with a blue button '論文の投稿はこちら' (Submit your paper here), followed by 'インパクトファクター:3.078 (2018) 編集委員長:松尾 恵太郎', 'オンラインジャーナル' (Online journal) with a list of publications, and 'このジャーナルについて' (About this journal) with a list of links similar to the main content area.

On this page you can find out about Springer Nature's open access (OA) policies for journal articles published via the immediate (gold) OA and subscription routes.

Our publication policies help our authors achieve a high level of openness with their research and support them in meeting the open access (OA) requirements of their research funders and institutions.

For information about meeting the OA policies of funders and institutions when publishing with Springer Nature, visit our OA funding support service.

If you're looking for information about our OA policies for books and chapters, you can find them here.

∨ OA licensing and copyright

Open access licensing

Open access (OA) articles in Springer Nature Journals are published under Creative Commons licences. These provide an industry-standard framework to support easy re-use of open access material.

Our preferred licence is the Creative Commons Attribution v4.0 International licence (CC BY), and all Springer Nature-owned journals with open access options offer the CC BY licence. The CC BY licence is the most open licence available and considered the industry 'gold standard' for open access; it is also preferred by many funders. This licence allows readers to copy and redistribute the material in any medium or format, and to alter, transform, or build upon the material, including for commercial use, providing the original author is credited.

CC BY is used for all articles in the BMC and SpringerOpen journals, in Nature Communications, the Communications journals, Scientific Reports, Scientific Data, Palgrave Communications, and in the majority of Springer hybrid journals. It is also the default licence for all other Springer Nature-owned fully open access journals and for OA content in all journals in the Palgrave Macmillan hybrid portfolio and in the majority of hybrid academic titles on the nature.com platform.

A very small number of journals, including those published under the Adis imprint, continue to use the Creative Commons Attribution Non-Commercial 4.0 International Licence (CC BY-NC) as their default licence. Some society-owned hybrid academic titles on the nature.com platform offer a choice of licences for OA articles. Please see the individual journals for details of other Creative Commons licences offered.

Where journals offer a range of Creative Commons licences, authors are advised to check their funder's requirements before selecting a licence, to ensure compliance. See here to find out more about how authors can discover funders' OA policies and meet their requirements.

All Springer Nature journals with an open access option offer intergovernmental organisation (IGO) versions of Creative Commons licences on request, where required by the author's employer.

Permission to use OA content published in Science journals

Articles from any of the Science journals that are published under a Creative Commons license (typically either a CC BY-NC or a CC BY license) will clearly indicate in the following locations which Creative Commons license governs its use:

- (1) On the article title where the article appears on the journal homepage or archive page;
- (2) On the Info and Metrics tab for each article, in the Copyright & Usage section;
- (3) In the html view of the article; and
- (4) On the article PDF, depending upon the journal, either on the first page, or at the end of the article text.

To determine whether your intended use of OA content requires further permission from AAAS, see <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc/4.0/legalcode> (for content published under the CC BY-NC license); or <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/legalcode> (for content published under the CC BY license)

If your intended use of OA content is not covered by the applicable Creative Commons license, please submit a request to us following the Special Request Guidelines that appear below.

PUBLICATIONS

Information and resources

Home / Publications / Information and resources

The EGU is dedicated to the pursuit of excellence in scientific research and to the free and universal accessibility of scientific publications in all areas of Earth, planetary and space sciences for the benefit of the scientists worldwide.

The EGU is a signatory of the 2003 Berlin Declaration on Open Access to Knowledge in the Sciences and Humanities (Berlin Declaration) and all its open access publications are included in the directory of open access journals (DOAJ). In March 2016, the EGU endorsed Open Access 2020, an initiative to promote the large-scale transition from subscription to open access publishing.

Objectives

The EGU is a dynamic, innovative and interdisciplinary learned society devoted to open access publishing under the following publication strategy:

- maximum flexibility regarding the type and the medium of publication;
- maximum attention with respect to the scientific and technical quality of a publication;
- maximum visibility and impact for all published articles, and
- authors' copyright and Creative Commons Attribution Licence

The EGU, together with its publisher Copernicus, aims to achieve these objectives by:

- producing various types of publications, including journals and a newsletter;
- using various media for publication, such as printing and media;
- applying rigorous but fair peer-review to all manuscripts assisted by an effective editorial office to keep review times short and costs low;
- applying professional copy-editing, where necessary;
- processing figures, movies and sound tracks;
- selecting the print-on-demand technology to reduce costs, to make back issues available at any time, and to print colour illustrations at no extra charge for authors;
- providing immediate and free web access to all articles, articles to be indexed by an ever-increasing number of search services, and the most liberal copyright agreement for the free reproduction according to the Creative Commons Attribution Licence;
- providing immediate and full article alert service about any new publication to all alert-subscribers;
- taking full advantage of emerging text-searching and data-mining techniques to exploit the full set of online publications;
- guaranteeing permanent online accessibility through external e-archives and internal sophisticated backup facilities

Permissions

Permission to reproduce AGU journal Content:

Requests to reproduce material from American Geophysical Union publications are being handled through the RightsLink® automated permissions service.

Simply follow the steps below to obtain permission via the Rightslink® system

- Locate the article you wish to reproduce on Wiley Online Library
- Click on the 'Request Permissions' link, under 'INFORMATION' on the navigational menu of the article
- Follow the online instructions and select your requirements from the drop down options and click on 'quick price' to get a quote
- Create a RightsLink® account to complete your transaction (and pay, where applicable)
- Read and accept our Terms & Conditions and download your license
- For any technical queries please contact customercare@copyright.com
- For further information and to view a Rightslink® demo please visit www.wiley.com and select Rights & Permissions.

AUTHORS

If you wish to reuse your own article (or an amended version of it) in a new publication of which you are the author, editor or co-editor, prior permission is not required (with the usual acknowledgements). However, a formal grant of license can be downloaded free of charge from RightsLink if required.

Photocopying

Teaching institutions with a current paid subscription to the journal may make multiple copies for teaching purposes without charge, provided such copies are not resold or copied. In all other cases, permission should be obtained from a reproduction rights organisation (see below) or directly from RightsLink®.

Rights and Permissions

— About

The author(s) retains copyright to individual PNAS articles, and the National Academy of Sciences of the United States of America (NAS) holds copyright to the collective work and retains an exclusive License to Publish these articles, except for open access articles submitted beginning September 2017. For such open access articles, NAS retains a nonexclusive License to Publish, and these articles are distributed under either a CC BY-NC-ND or CC BY license.

For volumes 106–114 (2009–September 2017), the author(s) retains copyright to individual articles, and NAS retains an exclusive License to Publish these articles and holds copyright to the collective work. Volumes 90–105 (1993–2008) are copyright National Academy of Sciences. For volumes 1–89 (1915–1992), the author(s) retains copyright to individual articles, and NAS holds copyright to the collective work.

Authors whose work will be reused should be notified. Use of PNAS material must not imply any endorsement by PNAS or NAS. The full journal reference must be cited and, for articles published in Volumes 90–105 (1993–2008), "Copyright (copyright year) National Academy of Sciences" must be included as a copyright note.

Please visit the Permissions FAQ for detailed information about PNAS copyright and self-archiving guidelines. The PNAS listing on the Sherpa RoMEO publisher policies pages can be found here.

Additional information and answers to frequently asked questions about author rights and permissions are available on our FAQ page.

PNAS authors need not obtain permission for the following cases:

1. to use their original figures or tables in their future works,
2. to make copies of their articles for their own personal use, including classroom use, or for the personal use of colleagues, provided those copies are not for sale and are not distributed in a systematic way,
3. to include their articles as part of their dissertations, or
4. to use all or part of their articles in printed compilations of their own works.

The full journal reference must be cited and, for articles published in volumes 90–105 (1993–2008), "Copyright (copyright year) National Academy of Sciences" must be included as a copyright note.

Requesting Permission

For permission to reuse material in volumes 1–89 (1915–1992), requests should be sent to the original authors, who hold the copyright. The full journal reference must be cited.

AMS Licenses for Journal Article Reuse

通常はAMS Copyright Policyだが、論文によってはCC BYライセンス。

In compliance with funder access policies, AMS makes all articles freely and publicly available one year from the date of final publication. Papers accepted for publication in AMS journals can be made available immediately upon publication without cost to the reader when the authors choose the Open Choice option when submitting their manuscript.

This page summarizes the licenses that apply to AMS journal content for the purposes of reuse. AMS journal articles are published under a variety of licenses, and specific publication rights have been granted to AMS by the authors of the published articles according to the AMS Copyright Policy.

AMS Default License for Journal Articles

Unless explicitly licensed for use under an alternate license, the AMS-published journal articles are governed by the AMS Copyright Transfer Agreement signed by the author and described in the AMS Copyright Policy.

Creative Commons Licensing

AMS is aware that some authors, as a condition of their funding, must publish their work under a Creative Commons license. We therefore offer a CC BY license for authors who indicate that their work is funded by agencies that we have confirmed have this requirement. Information about the CC BY license can be found on the Creative Commons web page. Any subsequent reuse or distribution of content licensed under CC BY must maintain attribution to the author(s) and the published article's title, journal citation, and DOI.

If any funding sources for you or your coauthors require the open access CC BY reuse license, please contact production@ametsoc.org, and indicate which funder has this requirement. Otherwise, the reuse license will fall under the standard AMS Copyright Policy.

2. Copyright Notice

The AMS requires that any republication of an AMS copyrighted work contain a copyright notice. The AMS copyright notice must be displayed on the first page of any AMS copyrighted work that is published in print or on the first screen of a digitized work (such as a website). It is acceptable to place the string "© Copyright [date of publication] AMS" as a hypertext link to the full copyright notice.

AMS's Full Copyright Notice

© Copyright [date of publication] American Meteorological Society (AMS). Permission to use figures, tables, and brief excerpts from this work in scientific and educational works is hereby granted provided that the source is acknowledged. Any use of material in this work that is determined to be "fair use" under Section 107 of the U.S. Copyright Act or that satisfies the conditions specified in Section 108 of the U.S. Copyright Act (17 USC §108) does not require the AMS's permission. Republication, systematic reproduction, posting in electronic form, such as on a website or in a searchable database, or other uses of this material, except as exempted by the above statement, requires written permission or a license from the AMS. All AMS journals and monograph publications are registered with the Copyright Clearance Center (<http://www.copyright.com>). Questions about permission to use materials for which AMS holds the copyright can also be directed to permissions@ametsoc.org. Additional details are provided in the AMS Copyright Policy statement, available on the AMS website (<http://www.ametsoc.org/CopyrightInformation>).

科学的、教育的workにおいて図などを利用することは、fair useならAMSの許可なしにできる。
上記によって免除される場合を除き、website上などelectric formでの投稿などについてはwritten permissionかAMSからのライセンスが必要（つまり、教育目的でfair useならelectric form投稿もOK）。

4. Permission for Use of Copyrighted Works of Others

An author who uses the material of another author or copyright owner, such as a graphical image, text, etc., is expected to obtain written permission from that author or copyright owner to include the material in the author's work and provide a copy of that permission to the AMS. The permission must be broad enough to permit the AMS to distribute the material as contained in the work in any and all media now known or later developed. Note that some copyright holders provide a "blanket permission" similar to that of the AMS that allows use of figures, tables, and brief excerpts without written permission (see Section 2). No additional action is required of authors who make use of materials that fall under such blanket permission.

←これは他の著者の論文の図などを用いて、AMS論文を書く場合のこと（今回は関係ない）？

8. Permissions Granted to Its Authors by the AMS

The AMS grants its authors the following permissions:

- Permission to reuse any portion of the author's work, without a fee, in future lectures, press releases, or works of the author's own, provided that the AMS citation and notice of the AMS copyright are included.
- Permission to post a copy of the work on the author's personal homepage (that is, a Web page under the direct control of the author) on a non-AMS server for noncommercial distributions, provided the AMS copyright notice (see section 2) is attached to the personal copy and that it represents the definitive copy (see section 6).
- Permission to have the work posted on open access institutional repositories under the conditions provided in section 7d.
- Permission for the author's employer to distribute copies of the work to other employees within the organization. The assignment of copyright to the AMS does not affect the right of the author to seek patent protection for any invention that may be disclosed in the work.

Authorの場合は、lectureなど、author自身の仕事に再利用してよいと書いてある。但し、適切にAMS citationおよびAMS copyrightを含むこと。
※録画講義などについては特に記述がない。

Open Access, Copyright and Permissions

Articles published from January 2018

In 2018, the Journal of the Meteorological Society of Japan (JMSJ) switched to fully Open Access publication. All articles published after the switch will be freely available online and will have clearly defined use and re-use rights, without the need to ask prior permission from the Meteorological Society of Japan (MSJ). Authors are required to sign a License to Publish to grant the MSJ permission to reproduce the work in the journal under a Creative Commons license. Please see Open Access: Frequently Asked Questions \(FAQs\)  for more information about JMSJ's open access policy.

Please complete the relevant page of the License to Publish (LTP) form when submitting your manuscript. (Page 1: standard LTP; Page 2: government employees LTP).

◆ License to Publish

Articles published before 2018

Articles published in JMSJ before 2018 will remain freely available. Given the copyright provisions of these articles, any republication, translation or other use will require written permission from the MSJ and acknowledgement of the original source.

An exception to this requirement is the use of figures, tables, or brief excerpts from JMSJ papers in scientific or educational publications, which do not require permission from the MSJ provided that the original source is acknowledged.

Author(s) of JMSJ papers published prior to 2018 may post a copy of their paper on their personal web page for non-commercial use, provided that the following acknowledgement and copyright statement are included: "©Copyright 20xx, Meteorological Society of Japan (MSJ). The original version was published in JMSJ."

2018年1月以降出版された論文：
MSJの事前許可を求めず必要なく利用・再利用する権利（詳細は次頁）。

2018年以前に出版された論文：
通常MSJによるwritten permissionが必要。但し、scientific or educational publicationsにおいては、例外的にMSJの許可なく図などを利用できる。

2018年1月1日以降出版された全論文：

CC BY 4.0ライセンスで、著者がcopyrightを保持。このライセンスは、著者やオリジナルソースに適切なcreditを与え、ライセンスへのリンクを含むならば、日本気象学会からの事前許可を求める必要はなく、userがどの媒体でもJMSJ論文をadapt/reproduce/distributeすることを許可する。

Is JMSJ an Open Access journal?

JMSJ is currently free to access, with authors paying a publication fee and the Meteorological Society of Japan (MSJ) obtaining the copyright of articles.

From 1 January 2018, all articles published in JMSJ will be published as fully Open Access. All JMSJ articles will still be freely available online, but articles published after 1 January 2018 will be published under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International (CC BY 4.0) license and authors will retain copyright. This license grants allows users to adapt, reproduce and distribute JMSJ articles (even commercially) in any medium provided they give appropriate credit to the author(s) and original source, include a link to the license, and indicate if any changes have been made, without the need to ask prior permission from the MSJ. Authors will be required to sign a License to Publish to grant the MSJ permission to reproduce the work in the journal under the CC BY 4.0 license.
